CrossGlobe Group announces the transition of Monson MA Facility

CrossGlobe Group today announced that it has signed an agreement with The Walsh Transportation Group to take over the operations of CrossGlobe's Monson, Massachusetts distribution facility. The transition will take place over the next thirty days and will be completed on or before March 1, 2012. The Walsh Transportation Group has a proven track record for customer service and will be able to provide the same outstanding level of service that customers of CrossGlobe have come to expect over the years.

CrossGlobe Group's current marketing agreement with The Walsh Transportation Group will remain in place and CrossGlobe will be working diligently during the upcoming month to ensure that the current customer and vendor base experience a seamless transition. Evelyn Pennell and her team will continue to handle the daily activities of the facility.

Bill Franks, President and CEO of CrossGlobe stated, "We are very pleased to be passing the baton at our Monson facility to the Walsh Transportation Group and believe that our customers are in great hands with such a deeply experienced operator. This agreement allows us to focus our efforts exclusively on our port-based logistics strategy. I am thankful for the hard work and dedication of our Monson based employees and am confident that this change will benefit both them and the business".

Jerry Gordon, Vice-President Sales and Marketing for the Walsh Transportation Group, stated, "The Monson Operation will enable WTG to extend our portfolio of services into an area we have long been looking for, the connection of transload operations from boxcar to 48 state Intermodal and OTR Truckload operations. We are excited to be able to have the wand passed from CrossGlobe Group to WTG and feel confident that this partnership will benefit everyone".
